NIGHT EDITION

Deep Mystery in Death of J. Herbert Blake from Arsenic Believed to Have Been Given Him in Coffee---Police at Work on Case Fail to Find Clue to Poisoner.

J. Herert Blake's dying declaration that he was not a suicide throws about his death from arsenic poisoning at his home in Hyde Park a mystery which the police are endeavoring to penetrate.

Found nothing on the piazza of his home, he told of having been seized with terrific pains after drinking coffee prepared for the evening meal.

In the coffee pot was found large quantities of arsenic. This is now in the possession of Chief Butters of the Hyde Park police who is searching for the place where the poison was purchased.

Not the slightest explanation for Blake's death can be found. He was in good health, happy in his home. A few weeks ago he took out a life insurance policy. The policy contained a suicide clause making it void in event of the holder taking his own life. Blake's movements on the two days preceding his death are be-

"I drank two or three mouthfuls of coffee," said the dying man. "It burned my stomach and soon after I had terrible pains. That is all that I know about it."

"You are going to die my son, it is better that you should tell how it happened now in order that there may be no blame placed on anyone else," the priest said.

Bake looked at those gathered about his bedside and shook his head.

"You know I wouldn't kill myself, father," he said.

Died in Great Agony.

"No one is to blame. I don't know how it happened." That was all theorist, his relatives and Chief of Police Butters could get from him. He died soon after in agony.

Medical Examiner Sturtevant and Dr. W. H. Bennett of the Hyde Park Emergency Hospital decided that no autopsy was necessary.

Chief of Boston headquarters at Ladder 12, which was headed by Ladd, said this location is made for the reason that the second assistant can cover the southern section of the city and also the one north with the middle section whenever his services may be required.

Captain Henry A. Fox, Engine 6, supervisor of the fire department, said that the fire was extinguished by the time the firemen arrived at the scene.

INTELLIGENT GUESTS: GIRL'S PARENTS STOPPED WEDDING

Declare Groom-to-Be Deceived Them About Position and Salary.

CEREMONY BUT 2 DAYS OFF

With the ceremony engaged, many guests invited and the ceremony left two days off, the wedding of Miss Mary Hery, the pretty eighteen-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold C. Hery, No. 50 Holland street, and Erroy H. Kenyon, twenty-three years old, the son of Mr. and Mrs. William H. Kenyon, No. 413 Highland avenue, Somerville, was called off by the girl's parents, and the wedding of the young man is trying to find out the reason.

Miss Hery was a popular student at the Somerville English High School where she was graduated last year, and has many friends among the younger set in Somerville. The young man is well known in the vicinity of Davis square.

Mrs. Hery says that the wedding was canceled because she and her husband feared that Kenyon had deceived them regarding his position and certain other things. Mrs. Kenyon declares that the wedding is only postponed because her son is seriously ill and about to undergo an operation for appendicitis.

The wedding was set for last Monday evening and a large number of invitations had been sent out. The wedding was called off on Saturday morning.

Mr. Kenyon had been invited to the house of Mr. Hery, and after talking with him he had decided to cancel the wedding.

His father and mother called on him that afternoon and said that they had been taken very much by surprise the day and had been prepared to a private home.

Mrs. Hery adds that a clerkman was engaged for the wedding, that Kenyon and her daughter had been visited in a number of families, and that Kenyon visited several real estate offices in the city.

Mrs. Hery says that her husband is a structural draftsman and is employed at the City of Boston. She says that her son is a graduate of the Somerville High School and the Institute of Technology.

THE LIGHTING TRUST'S NEW BOSS IN THE BOARD OF ALDERMEN IS AN EX-CONVICT

"JIM" CURLEY.

This is the statesman who has charge of the fight against Municipal Ownership in the Board of Aldermen.

When those members of the Board who take their orders from the machine want to know how to vote, they tip-toe over to Curley and get instructions.

This picture of Curley and the official record of his conviction for Civil Service frauds are not printed here for the purpose of calling attention to the fact that Curley is an ex-convict.

They are printed for the purpose of showing the public the kind of men the Lighting Trust relies upon in its effort to deprive the people of the right to vote on the question of a city lighting plant.

Curley, of course, is not the real boss of the Board of Aldermen. He is only a sub-boss and gets his orders from higher up.

Some day, if he does his work well, he may become a real boss and receive his orders direct from headquarters instead of through the Mayor's office.

FIGHT FOR TUCKER'S LIFE IN NATION'S HIGH COURT

Layers Contend That Law Officers Violated Boy's Constitutional Rights.

Point Upon Which Tucker's Appeal to United States Supreme Court Is Made

ATTORNEY VAHEY'S CONTENTION:

That the searching of Tucker's home and the obtaining of the knife and Canadian stipkin, under a search warrant for a graphophone, violated the constitutional right of the prisoner to abstain from giving evidence against himself.

JUDGE SHERMAN'S DECISION:

That the warrant was issued in good faith, but was not necessary and its powers not invoked, because the officers searched the Tucker house at the invitation of Mrs. Tucker, and not by virtue of their legal powers. The knife and Canadian stipkin are admitted as competent evidence obtained legally by officers of the law, and are not evidence given by the prisoner against himself.

FIGHT FOR TUCKER'S LIFE IN NATION'S HIGH COURT

Layers Contend That Law Officers Violated Boy's Constitutional Rights.

Point Upon Which Tucker's Appeal to United States Supreme Court Is Made

ATTORNEY VAHEY'S CONTENTION:

That the searching of Tucker's home and the obtaining of the knife and Canadian stipkin, under a search warrant for a graphophone, violated the constitutional right of the prisoner to abstain from giving evidence against himself.

JUDGE SHERMAN'S DECISION:

That the warrant was issued in good faith, but was not necessary and its powers not invoked, because the officers searched the Tucker house at the invitation of Mrs. Tucker, and not by virtue of their legal powers. The knife and Canadian stipkin are admitted as competent evidence obtained legally by officers of the law, and are not evidence given by the prisoner against himself.

When the Police Court said he was called to the office from his home. One of the officers told him that he wanted a warrant to search the Tucker house for a graphophone. He said he did not want a warrant, and the officers searched the house. He said he did not want a warrant, and the officers searched the house.

SPRINGFIELD, O., Feb. 28.—After a wild night, during which riot, arson and mob violence held full sway, Springfield awoke quiet this morning.

Only the sight of armed guardsmen patrolling the streets and the havoc wrought in "The Jungles," the negro settlement, indicated that the city had passed through one of the wildest nights in its history.

For six hours last night and early this morning the city was in the hands of a riotous mob, assembled to hang two men who shot a white brakeman, Martin M. Davis, and Earl Sulkins, a local ball player. Seven fires in "The Jungles" were burned to the ground and a negro was compelled to flee to escape the fury of the Police Overpowered.—The police were overpowered, the fire department defied. The rule of the mob was not stopped, and the military and militia companies were assembled under arms and companies arrived from Xenia and Urbana and took charge of the situation.

The police will make no arrests in connection with the rioting. There are reports, however, that the mob will assemble to-night. To guard against this nine more companies of militia will be sent to Columbus, two at Dayton and three at Urbana have been ordered to assemble at Columbus to-morrow morning in case of emergency. They will be rushed to Springfield if necessary. No one should occasion for their presence arise.

Negro Troops Called.—Davis, the brakeman, is still alive at the City Hospital, but there are no hopes that he will ever be brought home.

Two companies of the Third Regiment company of the Ninth Battalion, negro troops, held in readiness in the armory at 1215 N. 1st St. When white firemen started the attack on Davis and Sukins, they gathered at the centre of the city and began the riot-making inflammatory speeches. In less than half an hour a mob of 2,000 had assembled and were yelling and howling "Death to the niggers! Burn them all!"

As he came out at the scene of the fire, A company of the Ninth Battalion, negroes, were held in readiness to the attack. When white friends heard of the attack on Pastor Siskins, they gathered in the center of the city to hear the pastor making inflammatory speeches. In less than half an hour a mass of 2,000 had assembled and were yelling and howling "Treaties!" and "No more treaties!"

Sergeant Crocker was the first one killed. He was shot in the chest and the police to be injured. He was taken to the hospital and died in a few days, his body being hit with a brick.

After the riot was over, the militia had a show of bayonets ordered to keep the rioters on the move.

When white friends heard of the attack on Davis and Perkins, they gathered in the centre of the city and held a meeting, making inflammatory speeches. In less than an hour a mob of 2,000 had assembled and were yelling and howling "Death to the niggers! Burn them alive!" Several persons were the first to take the policy to be injured. He was taken to the hospital with a fractured skull, caused by a blow on the head.

The mob stoned and seered the militia, but the police were sufficient to keep the rioters on the move.

"School Days," by C. D. Gibson

A black and white illustration of a woman in late 19th-century attire, including a long skirt and a hat, holding a golf club on a grassy field. The woman is shown in profile, facing right, wearing a long, pleated skirt and a dark hat. She holds a golf club over her shoulder. The background is a simple, light-colored sky, and the foreground is a grassy field with some small plants.
